

Lab Alley Achieves ISO 9001 Certification, Reinforcing Commitment to Quality

[Austin, TX, January 30, 2025] — Lab Alley, a leading provider of natural, essential, and high-purity chemicals, proudly announces its achievement of ISO 9001 certification. This internationally recognized standard sets forth rigorous requirements for Quality Management Systems (QMS), ensuring organizations establish, implement, maintain, and continually improve processes to deliver consistent quality in products and services.

ISO 9001 certification is a testament to Lab Alley's dedication to operational excellence and customer satisfaction. The certification underscores Lab Alley's commitment to meeting and exceeding stringent quality standards, thereby enhancing customer trust and satisfaction.

Jose Jimenez, Lab Alley's Quality Assurance Manager, expressed the significance of this milestone, stating, "In our pursuit to deliver superior quality products to our valued customers, Lab Alley has implemented a robust Quality Management System. Achieving ISO 9001 certification not only validates our commitment to quality but also underscores our relentless pursuit of excellence and growth within the industry."

Fred Elabed, CEO of Lab Alley, reaffirmed the company's commitment to maintaining exceptional standards, remarking, "Lab Alley is dedicated to consistently delivering products and services of the highest quality. ISO 9001 certification reinforces our promise to customers, ensuring they receive reliable solutions that meet their exact standards."

Holly Elabed, CVO of Lab Alley, highlighted the customer-centric impact of this achievement, stating, "Our ISO 9001 certification is more than just a quality standard—it's a reflection of our promise to put customers first. By continuously improving our processes and upholding the highest levels of quality, we ensure that our customers can trust Lab Alley as a reliable partner for their chemical needs."

Lab Alley's attainment of ISO 9001 certification marks a significant achievement in its ongoing commitment to quality, reliability, and customer-centric operations.
